ICE DEPORTS FRENCH FUGITIVE WANTED BY INTERPOL

MIAMI- A 38-year-old citizen of France wanted by Interpol for abducting his 7-year-old son was deported to France this morning under escort by U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) detention and removal officers.

Frank Telaine Dolin Dolcy was arrested by ICE special agents Dec. 1 who were acting on an FBI lead.

Dolcy was charged with being present in the United States without inspection and was placed in removal proceedings. An immigration judge found Dolcy removable and ineligible for any form of legal relief Dec. 14.

Dolcy was met at Charles de Gaulle Airport in Paris by Interpol officers. Dolcy has been wanted by the French government since 1996.

"The United States will not be a hiding ground for criminals," said ICE Field Office Director Michael Rozos, who leads the agency's detention and removal efforts in Florida. "The Department of Homeland Security was created to bring a unified approach to law enforcement and by teaming up with Interpol and the FBI, we were able to bring an accused child abductor to justice."

ICE's Office of Detention and Removal (DRO) promotes public safety and national security through the enforcement of the nation's immigration laws. The office's personnel identify, locate and physically remove from the United States those criminal and non-criminal aliens who are determined by the justice system to be ineligible for legal relief and deportable.
